

CLAIM AMENDMENTS

In the claims please make the following amendments:

I claim:

1. (currently amended) A male urinary system comprising:
a penis/urinary collection interface unit, said penis/urinary collection interface unit comprising a primary receiver unit for accommodating a male penis during urination, said primary receiver unit having a curvature of between thirty two and forty degrees, and further configured for juxtaposition to and temporary seating against the adjacent pubic area and comprised of substantially rigid material, and a secondary containment unit extending at an angle of between fifty and fifty eight degrees from the juxtaposition of said primary receiver unit and said public area, and where ~~in which~~ said primary receiver unit is at least partially nested with proximal margins of said secondary containment unit and said primary receiver unit being fused to said secondary containment unit to prevent fluid ingress or egress past ~~the~~ a line of fusion between said primary receiver unit and said secondary containment unit, said primary receiver unit being positioned relative to said secondary containment unit whereby a gap is formed between the outer surface of said primary receiver unit and the inner surface of said secondary containment unit, said gap extending at least from the distal end of said primary receiver unit and said line of fusion between said secondary containment unit and said primary receiver unit, said primary receiver unit opening at its distal end into said secondary containment unit near the distal end of said secondary containment unit;

conduit means attached to said distal end of said secondary containment unit for collecting urine flowing from said distal end of said primary receiving unit;

urine receptacle means for receiving urine which flows through and from said conduit.

2. (newly added) The male urinary system of claim 1 further comprising a snap fit lid in combination with said primary receiver unit which closes and substantially seals the penis/urinary collection interface unit between uses.
3. (newly added) The male urinary system of claim 1 further comprising
a secondary spill proof mechanism where a proximate end of said primary receiver unit receiving the penis has an elevated edge at the juxtaposition with said pubic area rising from said line of fusion, said elevated edge being configured to facilitate prevention of even minor backflow.
4. (newly added) The male urinary system of claim 2 further comprising
a secondary spill proof mechanism where a proximate end of said primary receiver unit receiving the penis has an elevated edge at the juxtaposition with said pubic area rising from said line of fusion, said elevated edge being configured to facilitate prevention of even minor backflow.

Applicant respectfully submits, that in view of the above, claims 1-4 are in condition for allowance. Reconsideration and withdrawal of the restriction requirement are hereby requested, and allowance of Claims 1-4 at an early date is solicited. If impediments to allowance of the claims remain and a telephone conference between the undersigned and the examiner would help remove such impediments in the opinion of the Examiner, a telephone conference is respectfully requested.

Respectfully submitted,
